

Living The Dream

Manaia View's Behaviour Programme

Our Values and School Tone

Our values, manakitanga, aroha, tumanaka, tautoko and whakapono, are totally immersed in our school culture. Their influence forms a strong thread through all aspects of our school day. Below are some of the elements staff use to weave our values into our teaching and learning.

How We Build Positive Relationships

- 1 Development of positive and effective communication with our pupils, staff and community. Being available to talk with and listen to others. Using regular newsletters to keep whanau informed
- 2 Being positive and acknowledging appropriate actions
- 3 Being welcoming and accepting of others, their cultures and values.
- 4 Establishing clear expectations of work habits, behaviours and standards.
- 5 Having clear, effective and positive management strategies that take into account the needs of individuals.
- 6 Sharing something of our worlds with students.
- 7 Making an effort to develop open honest relationships with pupils, whanau and colleagues, which allow respect and trust to grow.

We Create Postive, Effective Class Tone By:

- 1 Having a well-prepared programme with relevant and stimulating learning activities that cater for the needs of the children. Being aware of the learning styles/multiple intelligences of individual children.
- 2 Building flexibility into programmes and offering choice in learning activities.

- 3 Being accepting and supportive of differences, and encouraging the class to do the same.
- 4 Being a happy and smiling teacher who provides a positive role model in all areas.
- 5 Having clear instructions, defined boundaries and realistic expectations, and a commitment to follow-up issues consistently.
- 6 Providing consistent modeling of self-motivation and quality learning. Using formative assessment practices across the curriculum!
- 7 Having open communication systems, and allowing children to feel they are being heard and providing and their opinions and ideas are valued.
- 8 Providing children with opportunities to develop a sense of responsibility and leadership.

All of which ensures that our values are very much what we stand for at Manaia View School!

Next newsletter will contain details of our behaviour steps along with an explanation of how our values impact on our playground atmosphere.
